

Cartel Investigations

Antitrust authorities around the world aggressively pursue cartel investigations. Complex and global, these investigations reflect close coordination among agencies. The impact can be far-reaching. People can be sent to prison. Corporate and individual reputations can be ruined. The financial consequences can be severe.

This multijurisdictional enforcement effort has changed the face of cartel defense. You need a global, strategic approach. You need a team experienced in the legal, procedural, and cultural characteristics of each country, able to coordinate strategy and responses.

Our cartel team at Hogan Lovells is truly global, including former officials from antitrust agencies. We are uniquely placed to advise clients on major cartel investigations conducted by antitrust authorities around the world. We offer practical advice coupled with unique insights. We can guide you through the storm.

Latest thinking and events

Webinar

Cartel Enforcement – Key trends for 2023

Insights and Analysis

New reform of the Foreign Direct Investment regime in Spain

Insights and Analysis

A new era for antitrust private litigation in Brazil with international repercussions

Contacts

Kathryn (Katie) Hellings,
Washington, D.C.

Christian Ritz, LL.M. (USYD),
Munich

Christopher Hutton,
Dublin

Omar Guerrero Rodríguez,
Mexico City

Practices

Crisis Leadership Team

Antitrust and Competition

News

DOJ secures first criminal attempted monopolization conviction in decades

News

Hong Kong Competition Commission brings first court case on resale price maintenance

News

Italian Law of 5 August 2022 - Annual Market and Competition Law 2021 ("Competition Law")