

Debtor Representation in Restructurings and Insolvencies

A company that becomes financially stressed needs support from its legal advisers. The lawyers at Hogan Lovells work with corporate clients to recognize the issues they face and formulate the right path.

That might be through a formal insolvency process. It might happen through consensual negotiations with key suppliers and creditors. Whether it is drafting employee incentive schemes to maintain morale, agreeing to new payment terms with suppliers and customers, delivering M&A processes, or negotiating amendments to existing credit facilities, we are renowned for our collaborative, pragmatic, and solutions-based approach and our exceptional commitment to clients.

Our geographical reach and our full service offerings in many jurisdictions mean that we can support our clients wherever they are. And in whatever they need.
