

Domestic & International Sponsored Research

The academic research enterprise is growing ever more complex. Government enforcement is intensifying, and projects are going global.

At Hogan Lovells we stay ahead of the evolving research compliance landscape. We daily advise on cost accounting and administration of grants and cooperative agreements, audits and investigations of grant funds, research misconduct, human subjects and animal research, and innovative intellectual property and technology transfer projects.

We have advised on research and humanitarian activities in more than 50 countries, including in Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America, and the Middle East.

Representative experience

Representing a leading institution in a multiagency False Claims Act investigation led by the US DOJ focusing on more than US$1bn of charges to federal awards.

Guiding a leading academic medical center through a voluntary disclosure to the NIH involving effort reporting.

Advising universities and medical centers in more than a dozen separate research misconduct cases during the past three years.

Contacts

William F. Ferreira,
Washington, D.C.

Practices

Education

Industries

Education

Advising medical research institutions on the establishment and operation of research and service activities across Africa, Asia, and Latin America.

Latest thinking and events

Insights and Analysis

Foreign Universities Are Permitted to Run Independent Schools in China's Hainan FTP

News

Transformative times for India's education sector

News

Key questions answered - China's regulation of international data transfers effective 1 September 2022

News

Department of Education releases long-awaited Title IX proposal

News

Establishing the framework of higher education in the UAE – an overview of the Higher Education Law

News

OIG report is critical of information security at academic and research contractors