

Federal Grants, Cooperative Agreements, and Sponsored Research

Changes in policy, regulation, and the market are transforming the government's approach to grants and cooperative agreements — adding more complexity to an already complex environment.

Sponsors of academic research, both governmental and private, impose strict requirements on the institutions they fund. And funded projects increasingly extend beyond borders to international collaboration and development.

Our cross-jurisdictional team embraces this challenge. We're plugged into federal awards and the research landscape, advising organizations across the spectrum of financial, operational, and scientific obligations in the U.S. and abroad. Our experience empowers institutions to execute effectively on their sponsored projects mission.

Latest thinking and events

Insights and Analysis

Foreign Universities Are Permitted to Run Independent Schools in China's Hainan FTP

News

Transformative times for India's education sector

Contacts

William F. Ferreira,
Washington, D.C.

Practices

Government Contracts

News

Key questions answered - China's regulation of international data transfers effective 1 September 2022

News

Department of Education releases long-awaited Title IX proposal

News

Establishing the framework of higher education in the UAE – an overview of the Higher Education Law

News

OIG report is critical of information security at academic and research contractors