

Real Estate Litigation and Disputes

Wherever we are in the economic cycle there is always scope for real estate disputes. From issues over the business space you use to disputes over property investments, deals, and development.

Our integrated global team of lawyers practicing across five continents will help you anticipate and navigate contentious real estate issues — however and wherever in the world they arise.

We truly understand the needs of the industry — owners, financial backers, and occupiers alike. That unique perspective informs our approach, protecting your interests while recognizing that at the core of any dispute there is often a valuable commercial relationship worth saving.

Representative experience

Advised Ernst & Young as administrators of the Luminar Group, in successfully defending a landmark High Court action relating to payment of rent as an administration expense.

Securing vacant possession of a large development site in London's West End, including terminating more than 30 Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 protected leases.

Successfully defended two financial institutions in litigation relating to a transfer of a portfolio of real estate and entities for roughly US$1.4bn.

Contacts

Mathew Ditchburn,
London

Michael L. Turrill,
Los Angeles

John W. Cook,
Colorado Springs

Practices

Commercial Litigation

Real Estate

Industries

Real Estate

Represented a large shopping mall developer in New York in defense of RICO claims.

Latest thinking and events

News

Security by design: incoming UK and EU legislation to tackle cybersecurity risks in IoT devices

News

Foreign exchange - Hong Kong court orders winding up of listco already wound up in Cayman Islands

News

A right to be heard – Hong Kong court says it need only be "reasonable"

News

ESG: The global energy crisis: a cross-border comparison

News

Update on digitalization of Civil Litigation procedures in Japan

News

Health and safety training: not just a tick box exercise