

Regulatory Authorization and Insurers

The costs and time spent becoming an authorized firm are a major investment for any business. We understand that you want to get it done quickly, efficiently, and right first time.

Hogan Lovells can advise on and project-manage your application to the relevant regulator at each and every stage. This includes setting out the process and timescales, determining the scope of the permissions you need, providing you with the correct forms, helping you demonstrate your suitability for authorization and preparing supporting documents, explaining the regulator's expectations, and assisting with liaison and follow-up questions from the regulator after submission.
