

Elizabeth C. Carter

Counsel
New York

Biography

Elizabeth is an experienced litigator who represents clients in a range of matters across industries, including state and federal regulatory investigations, business disputes, real estate matters, and insurance coverage litigation. Elizabeth has also represented clients in bankruptcy disputes and in securities fraud matters and regularly represents management consultants, and other strategic and professional advisers, in direct litigation, as well as in third-party subpoenas related to client work.

Through her practice, Elizabeth appears in state and federal court, as well as before arbitration panels, including FINRA and ARIAS.

Outside of her client work, Elizabeth has experience teaching as an Adjunct Professor at Fordham Law School and has served on the Advisory Board of Her Justice, a New York City not-for-profit dedicated to providing legal services to low-income women living in New York in Family Court proceedings.
