

Ali D'Amelio

Associate

Washington, D.C.

Biography

Ali D'Amelio is dedicated to helping clients navigate the legal landscape as they strive to achieve their goals.

In law school, Ali achieved a Concentration in Business and Finance Law, and upon graduation, she was honored with the Jennie Hassler Walburn Award for excellence in Civil Procedure. During her time as a student, Ali gained valuable experience in all aspects of litigation, including conducting research and drafting motions, both as a law clerk at a Maryland law firm and in the Office of General Counsel for a nonprofit organization that protects workers' rights.

Prior to law school, Ali studied Economics and International Business at the Villanova School of Business. She applied and honed her business knowledge through various internships, including at a big four accounting firm, and she is prepared to draw from her experience as a business student to serve clients.

Ali is also deeply committed to the firm's pro bono initiatives. In her first year at the firm, she participated in the pro bono rotation program, dedicating four months of her time to pro bono matters, with a focus on those that uplift and support women and children.

Latest thinking and events

- News
 - SEC releases long-awaited ESG proposal for investment companies and investment advisers

Phone

+1 202 804 7823

Fax

+1 202 637 5910

Email

ali.damelio@hoganlovells.com

Education and admissions

Education

J.D., The George Washington University Law School, with high honors, Order of the Coif, 2020

B.B.A., Villanova University, summa cum laude, 2017

Bar admissions and qualifications

District of Columbia
