Biography

Deb Staudinger helps clients carry out their toughest commercial transactions in an array of industries with a hands-on approach. She regularly advises and represents lenders and borrowers in secured transactions, including asset-based, cash flow, and large portfolio/real property lending deals, and venture/tech matters, both performing and distressed and cross-border and domestic.

Deb also represents financial institutions in structured secondary market transactions, typically including insurance products, and buyers and sellers in large portfolio financial asset sales. Deb's prior experience on the technical side of power generation gives her unique insight into several specialized industries, including energy and natural resources, technology, heavy industry, and health care, and allows her to help clients quickly identify and resolve operational, industry-specific issues.
