

Sam Dougherty

Associate
New York

Biography

Sam Dougherty focuses his practice on complex litigation and international arbitration matters. He began his Hogan Lovells career as a summer associate in 2018.

Sam graduated cum laude from Boston College Law School, where he gained valuable experience in the Anti-Terrorism and National Security Unit of the United States Attorney's office in the District of Massachusetts. He also served as a staff writer and articles editor of the Boston College Law Review and studied at Bucerius Law School in Hamburg, Germany.

Before law school, Sam worked for a member of Congress for two and a half years where he connected constituents with government resources and communicated the Congresswoman's positions on legislation.

He is passionate about pro bono causes and has assisted individuals who have sought asylum or refugee status.

Latest thinking and events

- News
 - Global Accountants' Liability Update – October 2021
- News
 - Global Accountants' Liability Update – September 2021

Phone

+1 212 918 5582

Fax

+1 212 918 3100

Email

sam.dougherty@hoganlovells.com

Practices

Commercial Litigation
Corporate and Securities Litigation
International Arbitration
Investigations, White Collar, and Fraud

Industries

Aerospace and Defense
Education
Financial Institutions
Sports, Media and Entertainment

Areas of focus

Sports

- Analysis
 - 2021 securities, shareholder, and M&A litigation outlook
- Hogan Lovells Publications
 - Global Accountants' Liability Update – January 2021
- Hogan Lovells Publications
 - Global Accountants' Liability Update – November 2020
- Published Works
 - Enforcing a judgment against an alter ego of a foreign sovereign New York Law Journal

Media and Entertainment

Esports and Gaming

Education and admissions

Education

J.D., Boston College Law School, cum laude, 2019

B.A., Boston College, cum laude, 2013

Bar admissions and qualifications

New York
