

Ann Z. Du

Associate
New York

Biography

Ann Du focuses her practice on general corporate transactions. She rejoined Hogan Lovells after working at the firm as a summer associate in 2019.

In law school, Ann served as a student attorney for the Duke Law Start-Up Ventures Clinic and represented early-stage businesses on a variety of corporate matters. She was a content editor for Duke Law and Technology Review, and a senior staff editor for Duke Journal of Constitutional Law and Public Policy. She also interned at Eastern District of Wisconsin.

Before law school, Ann worked at a Chinese public company for three years, where she worked with many multinational companies and gained a deep understanding of cross-border business issues.
