

Eric Paroche

Partner

Paris

Biography

Eric Paroche leads the Paris office's Antitrust, Competition and Economic Regulation practice. Through his past experience at the European Commission and his diverse practice in many industry sectors, Eric looks at issues from all angles and puts forward workable solutions.

He provides strategic advice to companies on managing merger and foreign investment control constraints and assists them in their filings with the European Commission, the French Competition Authority, the French Ministry for Economy and other authorities worldwide.

Eric represents companies in antitrust proceedings before the European Commission, the French Competition Authority, and the European and French Courts.

Clients also benefit from his strong experience in public procurement and State aids.

Eric lectures on competition law at Sciences Po.
