

Fabian Flüchter

Associate
Hamburg

Biography

Fabian Fluechter advises national and international clients in all matters of innovation management and protection with a particular focus on technical intellectual property rights and know-how. In particular, his practice focuses on patent litigation, technology transfer and licensing law.

A further focus of his practice is advising on employee invention law issues, both in the context of court disputes as well as in the course of M&A transactions. His clients include companies in the energy sector and aviation industry, medical device manufacturers, semiconductor manufacturers and telecommunication companies.

Fabian embraces international and interdisciplinary team work. Before joining us, he worked as a legal trainee for European IP boutique firms specializing in IP litigation and international portfolio management. Working in interdisciplinary teams at a faculty of mechanical engineering in Hamburg, Fabian particularly focused on matters of knowledge management and Open Source Software and Hardware.
