

Jared Graff

Associate
Los Angeles

Biography

Jared Graff leverages his past scientific and legal experiences to guide clients navigating the complex infrastructure of pharmaceutical and biotechnology regulatory matters.

Prior to joining Hogan Lovells, Jared was a patent attorney with a boutique intellectual property firm where he gained experience prosecuting patent applications for various biotechnologies.

Before starting his legal career, Jared worked as an analytical scientist at a contract research organization where he conducted drug metabolism and pharmacokinetic assays. Through this experience, Jared gained valuable insight into the pharmaceutical landscape, giving him a unique, first-hand perspective when approaching the myriad of legal challenges of the pharmaceutical and biotechnology industry.
