

Sihem Hassani

Senior Associate

Paris

Biography

Sihem Hassani is a senior associate in Hogan Lovells' Paris office focusing its practice on privacy, cybersecurity and TMT more generally. She also deals with a number of commercial matters and is an expert at contract drafting, including data processing agreements and data sharing agreements, and at contractual negotiation involving a wide range of matters.

She regularly advises clients from a wide variety of sectors (e.g., health, e-commerce, banking, insurance, social media, industry, retail, media, public sector) on complying with data protection and ePrivacy regulations. She has worked on projects involving complex data protection issues, such as the transfer of data outside the EU, the reuse of publicly accessible data, or the use of cookies and marketing operations. She also assists clients in conducting Data Protection Impact Assessments notably in the health sector, GDPR compliance projects and their implementation as well as in the context of personal data breach. In addition, she has also developed expertise in north african data protection laws (Algeria, Tunisia and Morocco).

Prior to joining Hogan Lovells, Sihem has worked in house for a major US tech company and in French and Anglo-saxon Paris based law firms where she has assisted french and international clients in complex IT projects (outsourcing, migration, etc..)
