

James Huang

Partner

Washington, D.C.

Biography

James Huang supports clients on an array of health care regulatory matters. He counsels pharmaceutical and device manufacturers and managed care plans on Medicare coverage and reimbursement policy, Medicare Advantage and Medicare Part D requirements, and Medicaid regulations and policies. He also advises on a range of provider issues, including price transparency, Medicare and Medicaid telehealth requirements, the provider-based rules, Emergency Medical Treatment and Labor Act (EMTALA), cost reporting, and the Medicare Conditions of Participation.

He also has significant experience in health care litigation, including providing health care subject matter knowledge in litigations challenging hospital price transparency, Medicare site neutrality payment reductions, Medicare administrative law judge appeal delays, and Medicaid upper payment limit disputes. Further, he is experienced in developing statutory and regulatory advocacy strategies, including drafting legislative and regulatory reforms and advising on the interaction of proposed reforms with existing legal frameworks.

James previously clerked for the Honorable Janice Rogers Brown of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit and the Honorable Leandra Kruger of the Supreme Court of California. His experiences while clerking provide him with a deep understanding of regulatory schemes at the state and federal level.
