

Molly Pallman

Senior Associate
Washington, D.C.

Biography

Molly Pallman litigates antitrust and competition disputes. She helps clients navigate the various stages of litigation in state and federal courts as well as government investigations.

Molly focuses her practice on antitrust litigation. She has experience at all stages of civil litigation, including as an integral member of the trial team that secured a victory in a 2020 health care merger challenge brought by the Federal Trade Commission. She works with clients across a range of industries, including health care and life sciences, hospitality, and technology.

Molly also represents companies in Department of Justice, Federal Trade Commission, and State Attorney General antitrust investigations and counsels clients regarding antitrust compliance issues.

While at the University of Virginia School of Law, Molly was an articles editor for the Virginia Journal of International Law and an intern with the Civil Division of the U.S. Department of Justice. Before attending law school, Molly worked at an international think tank in Washington, D.C., where she analyzed foreign policy developments.

Latest thinking and events

- Press releases
 - Hogan Lovells notches antitrust trial win, helps defeat DOJ challenge to UnitedHealth–Change Healthcare merger

Phone

+1 202 637 6571

Fax

+1 202 637 5910

Email

molly.pallman@hoganlovells.com

Practices

Antitrust and Competition
Commercial Litigation
Litigation Services

Industries

Life Sciences and Health Care
Technology and Telecoms
Aerospace and Defense

Areas of focus

Antitrust and Competition Litigation
Agency Investigations
Class Actions and Group Litigation
Competition Compliance

- Press releases
 - Hogan Lovells represents gay Asian man and his family, who were brutally attacked, in process to obtain criminal conviction
- Webinar
 - Staying ahead of the class: Emerging global issues in antitrust class actions
- Press releases
 - Hogan Lovells wins court battle with FTC over major Philadelphia healthcare merger

Government Investigations

Education and admissions

Education

J.D., University of Virginia School of Law, 2018

B.A., Bowdoin College, magna cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa, 2012

Bar admissions and qualifications

District of Columbia
