Biography

Grégoire Paquet is an Associate in our Global Regulatory Practice. A Belgian-qualified lawyer, he assists clients on a wide range of European and Belgian regulatory matters.

While his practice focuses on Life Sciences, he regularly assists companies active in the Environment, Food, Consumer Goods, Technology, and Automotive sectors. He supports companies in the entire lifecycle of their products, from early development and design stages to marketing and post-marketing issues. He has notable experience in handling crises and coordinating product recalls with communications to authorities/customers and implementation of global corrective actions.

He has a strong background in EU law and is able to assist with EU public policy processes, including lobbying, as well as (pre-)litigation before the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU).

Grégoire is leading our Pro Bono activities for the Brussels office and closely monitors regulatory Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) developments. In parallel to his work at Hogan Lovells, Grégoire is a Teaching Assistant at the Université Libre de Bruxelles where he lectures on Comparative Law.
