

Catalina Santos Parkinson

Senior Associate
Washington, D.C.

Biography

Catalina Santos Parkinson advises public and private clients on a variety of corporate and securities matters, including public and private securities offerings, securities law compliance, and corporate governance matters.

Catalina leverages her extensive experience on a broad range of securities transactions to help clients navigate the critical business and drafting issues that arise in the course of an offering.

As part of her public company advisory work, Catalina helps clients satisfy their ongoing SEC reporting obligations while staying in compliance with the latest regulatory demands and industry practices.

Prior to joining Hogan Lovells, Catalina worked as an associate at another leading national firm where she worked on banking, securities, mergers and acquisitions, and general corporate matters. While in law school, Catalina worked in the University of Chicago's Corporate Lab. Before law school, Catalina earned a B.A. in Government from Harvard University, where she remains actively involved as a volunteer interviewer for college applicants.
