

Foreign Business Travelers Headed to Iran Could Face Obstacles Entering the US, After Changes to the Visa Waiver Program

13 January 2016

International Trade Alert

With the lifting of sanctions under the nuclear agreement between the world's major powers and Iran soon to occur, changes to a major U.S. visa program for visa-free entry to the United States could complicate plans by business leaders considering new investments in, or resumption of business dealings with, Iran.

Read More: Obstacles Entering the US, After Changes to the Visa Waiver Program

Contacts

Dr. Patrick
Ayad, M.Jur.
(Oxford)

Partner

Anthony V.
Capobianco

Partner

Lourdes
Catrain

Partner

Brian P.
Curran

Partner

Aleksandar
Dukic

Partner

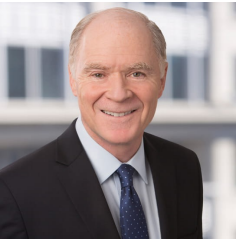

H.P.
Goldfield

Senior International Affairs Advisor

Ajay
Kuntamukka
la

Office
Managing Partner

Robert D.
Kyle

Senior Counsel

Louise Lamb

Partner

Beth Peters

Partner

Stephen F.
Propst

Partner

Dr. Falk
Schöning

Partner

T. Clark
Weymouth

Partner

> Read the full article online