

2003

HeinOnline

Grutter was not a surprise. A close reading of what the Court had said since 1978 strongly suggested that a majority would permit affirmative action in the university admissions setting. But the Court's reasoning, particularly its embrace of educational autonomy, was unexpected.

Read "The Promise and Precondition of Educational Autonomy"

Contacts

Neal Katyal

Partner

> Read the full article online