

25 October 2022

World Trademark Review

In a recent decision under the Uniform Domain Name Dispute Resolution Policy (UDRP) before WIPO, a panel has denied the transfer of the domain name at issue, finding no indicia of typosquatting, despite the fact that the domain name was merely the singular version of the complainant's domain name and trademark.

Read more: UDRP complainant makes a false step

Contacts

Jane Seager

Partner

> Read the full article online