A joint Hogan Lovells & GTDT publication on the law and regulation governing the automotive industry in the United States.

Have a first look into the United States chapter including questions like

Describe the significance of, and developments in, the automotive industry in the market:

The US automotive industry is massive. The US auto market is the world's second largest by number of vehicles produced. Over 250 million vehicles populate US roads. New vehicle sales increased over seven straight years in the United States from 10.4 million vehicles in 2009, in the depth of the 'Great Recession', to 17.46 million in 2016 – the record for annual new vehicle sales. Total sales were approximately 17.13 million in 2017 and 17.21 million vehicles in 2018.[...]
