

Thomas Raudkivi

Senior Associate

Paris

Biography

Thomas Raudkivi has a broad intellectual property dispute resolution practice. He has experience in new gTLDs, domain name disputes, trademarks, brand protection, data protection, cybersecurity, and the provision of tailored industry-specific dispute resolution services. He has particular interests in Internet and information technology law.

Prior to joining Hogan Lovells in 2018, Thomas spent nearly five years in Geneva as a lawyer in the Internet Dispute Resolution Section of the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) Arbitration and Mediation Center.

Thomas graduated from the University of Auckland with a LL.B and B.A. (Hons) and is admitted as a Barrister and Solicitor of the High Court of New Zealand, where he worked on a range of criminal, insurance and medico-legal matters before moving to intellectual property practice.

A dual national of Estonia and New Zealand, Thomas is a native English speaker, and is also fluent in French and Spanish.

Representative experience

Advising several of the world's leading social media and technology companies on brand protection and online trademark enforcement.

Advising a leading sports company on strategy for domain name recuperation.
