Counsel

Washington, D.C.

Biography

When it comes to mergers, Robert Baldwin is known to be in the trenches with his clients to get the deal done.

As counsel, his extensive experience in Hart-Scott-Rodino Act compliance, as well as his vast knowledge in government investigations, helps him obtain antitrust regulatory clearances needed to close transactions. Robert understands that timing is crucial in mergers.

With a history in corporate practice, he has the ability to offer a unique mindset on the regulatory approval process. Robert helps companies comply with antitrust laws efficiently, while balancing compliance risks associated with the process. Outside of mergers, Robert provides counsel on a range of antitrust matters. He is relied upon for his problem-solving ability and industry know-how of non-merger government investigations, strategic collaborations, joint ventures, pricing and distribution matters, and general antitrust compliance.

During his first few years at the firm, Robert worked as an in-house lawyer for a major financial services company, serving as their go-to on all of their antitrust needs. He is down-to-earth, detail-oriented, and sees the bigger picture for his clients.
