

Julie Schwartz

Counsel

Paris

Biography

Julie Schwartz focuses her practice on Privacy and Cybersecurity. She assists and advises clients on any kind of privacy-related matters and understands their needs in various sectors and industries. In particular, she provides clients with assistance for their GDPR compliance, including drafting internal policies and privacy impact assessments, implementing binding corporate rules, handling litigious complaints and requests from data subjects, assisting in case of data breach, drafting and negotiating data processing agreements, etc. Julie also assists clients during CNIL (French Data Protection Authority) dawn-raids (online, documents based and on premises) and ensures follow-up with the Authority.

In addition, she has solid experience in providing Privacy training to clients, including training of Data Protection Officers (DPO). Julie writes on a regular basis articles and papers for professional specialized journals in French and English.

Before joining Hogan Lovells, Julie was an associate in one of the most respected French "boutique" lawfirms focusing on Technology matters. She then joined the Paris office of a global law firm where she continued to develop her practice in Privacy and Cybersecurity. She also previously worked as a paralegal for a US lawfirm located in New York City.
