Biography

When automotive manufacturers and distributors need counsel concerning state motor vehicle franchise laws and dealer matters, they turn to Scott Golden. Scott helps clients develop and implement sophisticated strategies to achieve business goals in the face of a challenging automotive regulatory environment.

Scott is known for his ability to analyze complex and difficult issues, identify risks, and come up with creative solutions to mitigate such risks and achieve the client's desired outcome.

Scott began his legal career as a bankruptcy attorney. His first foray into the automotive industry came during the economic crisis of 2007-2008, when he successfully represented clients in numerous dealer bankruptcies throughout the U.S. and advised clients regarding the GM and Chrysler bankruptcies. Shortly thereafter, as clients recognized that Scott had substantial transaction and courtroom skills that were applicable beyond bankruptcy, clients began seeking Scott's advice for non-bankruptcy dealer-related issues. As a result, Scott's work in the automotive industry quickly expanded beyond bankruptcy, and ultimately he became a full-time member of our automotive practice.

Today, Scott is a sought-after advisor to automotive clients. He understands that business goals are often impeded by the highly regulated environment of the U.S. automotive industry. Scott is a highly skilled negotiator and draftsman when it comes to
