

Hogan Lovells Solutions

When the issues confronting your organization require a multidisciplinary solution, we deliver.

We know that today's world doesn't wait for complex solutions to be implemented across a host of advisors, so we offer seamlessly integrated teams of business consultants across a range of disciplines, making it easy for you to get and use the answers you need in one coordinated global team. Hogan Lovells Solutions – bringing more, adding value.

That's why our team includes technical and risk professionals. Working side-by-side with our market-leading lawyers, our professionals ensure that clients receive tightly integrated and complementary legal, technical, and management counsel, creating a seamless experience appropriately protected by attorney-client privilege.

The technical knowledge and training of our consultants and lawyers allows us to work directly with a client's IT security team, as well as in-house counsel, with no lost time for "translation" of specialized terminology or concepts. And our experience within, and working with, law enforcement and other government agencies enables us to counsel and support internal investigations, litigation, and other external interactions with practical, informed advice.
