Biography

Stefan Martin provides practical and strategic advice in relation to any employment issue a business is likely to face, using over 25 years' experience to guide employers through some of their most sensitive employee related challenges.

He concentrates on issues which carry a material reputational and/or financial risk, or which involve making sensitive judgment calls. Much of his practice has an international dynamic, taking the lead on managing and co-ordinating cross-border projects and issues in multiple jurisdictions for multinational corporations. Clients appreciate his 'unflappable', 'calm and highly astute' manner and 'clever and tactical' thinking in what are often highly pressurised situations.

Described as a 'shining in both the contentious and transactional arenas', Stefan handles an extensive array of matters, acting for a longstanding client base focused on financials and well known corporates.

Stefan represents respondents in complex Employment Tribunal cases and in High Court claims which often include allegations of whistleblowing and discrimination or which involve advising on the enforcement of restrictive covenants. He handles high-profile cases at first instance and at appellate level has a great deal of experience advising clients on board level and senior executive issues.

Stefan's transactional practice spans mergers, acquisitions, joint ventures and restructurings and he
